International Conference on Animal Science AND Veterinary Medicine (ICAVET) Paper Competition

I. Background

The COVID-19 pandemic has hit various parts of the world. Indonesia, being a large nation that inhabits land and oceans, it can be ascertained that there are many problems, needs and challenges facing country, especially in the field of animal health and its production. Some can overcome in the short term, but many of the problems, obstacles and new needs will be resolved at a later. Student must help find the right solution. Whether in the form of short-term action or realistic thinking that takes a long time. This competition opens opportunities for students to express creative realistic ideas as an intellectual response to actual problems facing the nation. The idea is independent from the field of science, unique creative realistic, visionary / futuristic and useful.

II. This event aims to :

- Motivate students to deliver their aspirations and idea of current global scientific issues
- Encourage students to create scientific innovations and changes to solve environmental issues nearby through scientific project abstract writing
- Facilitate students to experience and involved in both national and international scientific forum through scientific writing competition

III. Themes and Scopes

The theme raised in this scientific writing competition is "Innovation on Animal Health and Animal Production in the Pandemic of COVID-19".

The scope of discussion can cover all aspects of the state such as social, economic, cultural, political, legal, education, health, defense and security, technology, food and the environment.

Determination of issues must be original, actual and refers to solve problems that occur in society today and requires long-term sustainable solutions based on the results of smart thinking.

IV. Output

The output is creative ideas in the form of scientific articles containing the concept of change
